National SAVE Youth Advisory Board Attend Leadership Institute

The National SAVE Youth Advisory Board (YAB) traveled to Farmville, Virginia to plan the National SAVE Summit, establish activities for National SAVE Day, and work on their educational component for this school year. They also presented four sessions at the Virginia Youth Alcohol/Drug Abuse and Prevention conference. The YAB selected the theme of the 2008 National SAVE Summit – Turn Off the Violence, Tune Into SAVE. The Summit will take place on April 5, 2008 in Raleigh, NC on the campus of NC State University. The YAB will be working through the fall on a new educational component for the SAVE Essentials Manual focusing on Youth Suicide Prevention. ### Monthly Focus – Back to School

It is "that" time of year again. Students are heading back to school and it's hard to determine who is more excited, the students or the parents! Students have their pens and paper, and their outfits for the first day of school, but have you thought about safety and what you need to do to prepare for a safe school year? A small amount of planning now, can help everyone have a more pleasant and safer experience for the entire school year and beyond. SAVE Chapters nationwide are encouraged to lead their school sites in safety activities. This month's focus includes activities in the areas of Safety Awareness, Crime Prevention, and Conflict Management in the classroom. Let the beginning of the school year be a time to concentrate on new SAVE activities, fewer cases of violence in and around the school and community, and the safety of those around you. For suggested activities and a Back to School Safety toolkit, visit <http://www.nationalsave.org/main/may.php>. Be sure to watch for your back to school mailing from SAVE for additional information. ## School Violence Resources & Information

- CDC Releases Findings on Violent Incidents in School Settings

After the recent campus violence in Virginia, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) has provided a review of its ongoing research on violent events in school. Among the key findings: most violent incidents occur at lunchtime, as school is starting or ending for the day, or during other transition times. Among students and adults responsible for a homicide in school, almost half provided a note or some other type of warning before the incident. And of all students who committed a homicide in school, 20 percent had been known to be victims of bullying and 12 percent had been known to exhibit suicidal tendencies. Read the full article at: <http://www.cdc.gov/ncipc/dvp/sch-shooting.htm>
- SAMHSA Offers Resources to Promote Mental Health and Reduce Violence

Preventing violence on campus is of critical importance and so is helping victims and witnesses deal with the emotional after effects. To help address these issues, the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA) is offering a range of materials with tips for helping trauma victims, preventing violence, promoting good mental health, understanding and removing the stigma of mental illness, and preparing to respond to emergencies and disasters. Read the full article at: http://www.samhsa.gov/MentalHealth/understanding\_MentalIllness.aspx
- Depressed Teens More Likely to Start Drinking and Using Drugs

Teenagers suffering from depression may also be at greater risk of trying alcohol or other drugs, says a new report from the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA). The report -- based on estimates from the 2005 National Survey on Drug Use and Health -- found that among teens who had never before used alcohol, 29.2 percent of those experiencing depression took their first drink within the past year, as compared to 14.5 percent of those not experiencing depression. Statistics were similar for illicit drug use, with 16.1 percent of depressed teens versus only 6.9 percent of non-depressed teens trying drugs for the first time within the past year. Said Terry Cline, Ph.D., SAMHSA administrator, "Recognizing depression early and helping youths receive appropriate help may prevent substance use." - SCHOOLS CAN INCREASE THEIR SECURITY FOR FREE THE SMART WAY

This past school year in the wake of another devastating tragedy of violence on a school campus, parents, school officials and community leaders are reminded of the importance of providing a safe and secure school environment. Many school districts have developed emergency plans and are implementing procedures and technologies that can reduce the likelihood of an incident and can minimize the impact of an event if one occurs. However, many schools are faced with budget constraints that limit the resources that are available to address school safety and security issues. The NI<sup>2</sup> Center for Infrastructure Expertise, a not-for-profit applied research group, has developed the School Multi-hazard Assessment and Resource Tool, or SMART School Tool™. The SMART School Tool is a web-based program that enables school officials to complete their own assessment of security and emergency preparedness by answering a series of questions. The tool provides the users with direct links to up-to-date resources, such as safety and security best practices, cost-effective technologies and on-line training. Upon completion of the self-assessment, SMART generates a series of detailed reports that identify the strengths and weaknesses of the school's security and emergency preparedness procedures and systems. The team approach to SMART facilitates discussion and partnerships with local law enforcement, the fire service, and the community. The tool encourages an "all-hazards" approach to school safety and security. To date, the SMART School Tool has over 400 registered users and nearly 350 online resources. The SMART School Tool is available at NO COST to schools, government agencies and non-profit organizations that are involved with school safety and security initiatives.
